

Quest Product Development was recognized by the Jefferson Economic Council on March 26, 2009 and honored for their significant economic contributions in 2008. Jefferson county is the 4th most populated county in Colorado comprises roughly the western half of the Denver metropolitan area. A video was unveiled during the ceremony that highlights the biomedical industry in Jefferson County Colorado. The video highlights three organizations, CaridianBCT, Quest Product Development, and Exempla Lutheran Hospital (Link to video <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DZxEcKvZ7R8>). Mark Stevenson, the Director of Operations at Quest, said "We are pleased to be recognized along with the other recipients for our growth over the past year and contributions to the economic growth of Jefferson County. The award given to Quest truly belongs to our customers. Their faith in our technical team for the development of medical devices and biotech instrumentation is the foundation of this award." To learn more about Quest Product Development visit their web site at: www.quest-corp.com or contact Rick Muller at 303 670 5088 X20 or www.quest-corp.com/contact-us .